

The University of California

In just over a century, the University of California has built an international reputation for academic excellence. Whether, you want a broad liberal arts education, preparation for graduate study, or training for a particular profession, the University probably has a program to meet your needs. The University of California includes world famous campuses such as UC Berkeley and UCLA. The University of California campuses are primarily research and theoretical institutions providing transfer students with skills to pursue graduate level degrees. At most campuses, undergraduate majors are offered by academic units called colleges, such as the College of Letters and Science, College of Engineering, or College of Chemistry. At San Diego, each of the six colleges has a distinct academic philosophy. Santa Cruz has eight colleges, each a small community with unique intellectual interests and social traditions.

To transfer to the university of California in junior-standing from Glendale Community College, you will need to complete:

- A. 60 units of transferable coursework with at least a 2.4 GPA (often higher) and
- B. Earning a "C" or better in each of the following courses: two transferable college courses in English composition (at least 3 semester units each) one transferable college course in mathematics (at least 3 semester units) four transferable courses (at least 3 semester units each) chose from at least two of the following subject areas: the arts and humanities, the social and behavioral sciences, the physical and biological sciences.
