Professor Doyle has taught English and Humanities at Glendale College for nearly forty years. This will be his seventh trip to Ireland and fifth trip with the GCC Study Abroad. In addition to teaching about Irish history, literature and culture, he is an avid participant, working as a professional Irish musician (harp, mandolin, bodhran), an award-winning singer, holding certification for fluency in the Irish language, with a discography of ten recordings and two published books on Irish music.

English 48 - Field Studies is a course designed to help students experience the richness of the culture of Ireland and England through visiting cultural landmarks, museums, castles, forts, cliffs and jails and sites associated with Irish history and the many famous and infamous literary figures. Local cultural experts will address the students and cultural walking tours will be part of our introduction to each location. Upon completion of this course, you will know much about the music, literature, language and the ethos of the region. Lecture 1 hour. Prerequisite: None. Transfer Credit: CSU

Professor Queen has taught Politics and Humanities courses at Glendale College for over 25 years. This will be his fifth study abroad to Ireland and England with Professors Doyle and Kronbeck (and this will be his 10th trip to Ireland and 6th trip to England!) His Contemporary World Politics (PS 110) focuses on the Troubles in Northern Ireland: the conflict between members of the Catholic and Protestant communities over whether Northern Ireland should remain in the United Kingdom. What is especially compelling about this case is that it resulted in a successful negotiation of that conflict with greatly reduced violence. The role of the nation-states of the Republic of Ireland, the United Kingdom and the United States will be examined, as well as that of international organizations such as the United Nations and the European Union. Brexit and contemporary debates around migration will also be featured.

Political Science 110: Lecture 3 hours. Recommended Preparation: Eligibility for ENGL 120 or ESL 151. Transfer Credit: CSU, UC, USC

Professor Kronbeck has helped lead the Ireland/England Study Abroad program twice, 2015 and 2017. Both times she travelled with Professor Doyle and Professor Queen and they have become quite the team for this program. Professor Kronbeck has two Master Degrees, one in History and one in American Studies. The lives of the marginalized communities are very important to her which lends itself well when teaching about the Irish Immigrant experience in the United States. Prof. Kronbeck will teach Ethnic Studies 111, European Immigrant Experience in the United States. This course will examine the theory of immigration, the narrative of what it means to be an American, and will extend the dialog to beyond European immigrants to what is happening today with the immigrant community.

Ethnic Studies 111: Lecture 3 hours. Recommended Preparation: Eligibility for ENGL 120 or ESL 151. Transfer Credit: CSU, UC, USC.
