Distance Education and the Collective Bargaining Agreement (Guild Contract)

The GCC Collective Bargaining Agreement (July 1, 2015 - June 30, 2018) - Updated December 18, 2018 - affects all GCC Faculty, including those who teach in DE.

Article VI, Section 16E. "Faculty members shall not be assigned online or hybrid courses without their consent. Only faculty members who complete a training course, approved by Glendale Community College's Committee on Distance Education (CoDE) for online and hybrid courses, shall be offered such courses."

Article VI, Section 16F. "A faculty member who creates a new course, or converts an existing course to online or hybrid shall maintain the right of first refusal to teach that course for four (4) consecutive primary semesters, provided that: 1. there is adequate enrollment to offer the course and, 2. the faculty member does not receive an unsatisfactory evaluation 3. the faculty member has completed training approved by CoDE."

Article VI, Section 16G. "No contract instructor shall be assigned distance education (fully online and/or hybrid) courses for more than 67% of his/her load."

Article VI, Section 3. Office Hours A. "For online office hours, instructors shall communicate with their students synchronously. It is recommended that the faculty member send a notification to their students at the beginning and end of each office hour period held online...Instructors should offer office hours in blocks no shorter than thirty (30) minutes each."
