- Focus on Quality of Program Reviews
We have 100% completion rate for program reviews. In addition to maintaining that rate, we also want to focus on the quality of the program reviews being submitted. Support from validators need to be increased by zeroing in on particular areas like mission statement, data, and strategic plan. Daphne Dionisio will send an email to department chairs letting them know they should share the data dashboard link to their members to review and discuss the data. Departments will decide what data is most meaningful for them. Before reaching out to offer support to departments, validators should first examine the data and strategic plan linkage matrix. When validators contact chairs, they should offer targeted support with emphasis on the mission, data, and strategic plan. What is the status of the department's goals? Are they following through on planned actions to support the goals? What were the outcomes of those actions? Resource requests should not constitute an action. Departments should plan as though we are returning to on-campus work conditions. Daphne Dionisio will send a packet of guidance to validation team members and provide access permissions in eLumen.

- 2020-2021
The schedule for Program Review was reviewed. November 1, 2020 is the deadline for submission. From November 2-22, 2020, deans and VPs will review program reviews and resource requests. On December 1, 2020, validators will send validation checklists to Daphne Dionisio.
- Data Dashboard Workshops
Conducting data workshops in zoom meetings with large groups is going to be difficult to do remotely since users typically need one-on-one help logging in to the dashboard. It might be possible to use breakout rooms to mirror the in-person experience.
