

THE INTERSECTIONALITY OF DISABILITY AND RACE IN MEDIA AND EMPLOYMENT with Andraéa LaVant

In this two hour training session, DSPS students, Student Equity students, ASGCC, and GCC personnel will explore the intersectionality of race and disability as it relates to media and employment. Participants will gain an awareness of the unique barriers that students of color and those with disabilities/ learning differences face and how that affects their search for employment.

SPEAKER BIO

Andraéa LaVant is founder and president of LaVant Consulting, Inc. (LCI), a social impact communications firm that offers cutting-edge corporate development and content marketing for brands and nonprofits. LCI's specialty is helping brands "speak disability with confidence." As a communications consultant and inclusion specialist, Andraéa has over a decade of experience working with programs that support youth and adults with disabilities and other underserved populations. Andraéa is a strong advocate for exploring disability from an intersectional lens and offers a unique perspective on the initiatives that she supports.

THURSDAY, MARCH 25, 2021

12:30–2:30PM

<https://cccconfer.zoom.us/j/98365612388>

Hosted and Sponsored by Disabled Students Programs and Services (DSPS) and Cultural Diversity
Please contact the Lead Interpreter/Coordinator, Kim Weissman at Kweissman@glendale.edu if you need ASL/RTC services.