

About the Pulitzer Center's Initiative:

»The Pulitzer Center and GCC joined forces in 2022, working in tandem with the Journalism and History Departments, to inaugurate a specialized educational program focused on gender-centric reporting.

»The Pulitzer Center introduces award-winning journalists to GCC for on-campus events every fall and spring semesters, amplifying the learning experience and enriching the college's public programs.

»The crown jewel of this collaboration is a Pulitzer Center reporting fellowship, exclusively available to one deserving student, who gets to report on a gender-centric subject from anywhere in the world. The student's international travel is covered up to $3,000 for on-the-ground reporting and an all-expense paid trip to Washington, DC in October to present their findings alongside the other Pulitzer fellows from around the country.

»Through this partnership, GCC gains recognition as a Campus Consortium partner, enabling students to tap into unparalleled professional development and mentorship avenues, supported by both Pulitzer's veteran journalists and GCC's committed faculty.

»Students under the Pulitzer Center Campus Consortium program at GCC will direct their journalistic endeavors towards gender, aligning them with a broader global-interest narrative.

Join us to learn more!

Engage with your faculty, partake in the Pulitzer Center programs, attend public sessions, and harness this exceptional chance to hone your journalistic prowess, focusing on urgent gender issues on both national and international fronts.

2023 Reporting Fellow Brittany Klintworth and Professor Michelle Stonis from Glendale Community College pose for a photo during the Pulitzer Center's Reporting Fellow Washington Weekend event held in Washington, D.C., Oct. 13-15, 2023

Learn more by scanning the link above or going to:
<https://bit.ly/GCCPulitzer>

Questions?

Please email Dr. Reut Cohen Schorr and Professor Michelle Stonis at gccpulitzercenter@glendale.edu.

Pulitzer Center Initiative at Glendale Community College (GCC)

2024-2025
Info Session

STUDENT SEMINAR SESSION

Sept. 26, 2024
12:30 p.m. to 1:30pm
Virtual (ZOOM)

Zoom link:
bit.ly/GCCPulitzerInfoSession2024

2022 Pulitzer Center Washington Weekend in Washington, D.C.

glendale.edu/Pulitzer

Pulitzer Center & Glendale Community College Partnership

Introduction to Glendale Community College:

- Glendale Community College (GCC) stands as a beacon in the Greater Los Angeles region, committed to creating an environment celebrating diversity, equity, inclusion, and accessibility.
- GCC's legacy began in 1926, with a vision to democratize both academic and vocational instruction in Glendale.
- Now, GCC reaches over 18,000 students, offering unmatched educational opportunities. Boasting a diverse demographic including a significant Hispanic community and the largest Armenian community in the U.S., the college revels in its multicultural ethos.

The Journalism Program at GCC:

- The required Journalism Student Publications Staff course is taught by its faculty advisor, Dr. Cohen.
- Students venture into varied journalistic publications and productions, putting together newspapers, magazines, podcasts, and more.

- Embodying both the campus and Los Angeles' diverse spirit, the Journalism program at GCC is holistic and dynamic in its training of student reporters. Students are exposed to courses spanning newsgathering, reporting, newspaper design, news photography, digital journalism, and teamwork.

- The program encourages expansive networking as students collaborate with a wide range of peers, staff, and expert faculty beyond journalism.

- The Journalism program sits under the Language Arts Division.

Women's History and Gender Studies at GCC:

- The required Women in American History course surveys women's history from the colonial period to the present, emphasizing relevant cultural, political, economic, and social factors. Informed by Professor Stonis' Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies coursework with leading scholars, this class uniquely addresses women's historical and contemporary experiences through the lens of current intersectional feminist analysis.

- The History Department supports various opportunities for students to engage in activism, community building, and meaningful hands-on learning through guest speakers, field trips, and ASGCC student clubs such as the History Students' Association and the Feminist Society.

“ My fellowship allowed me to travel abroad, something I've never done, to dig deeper into a topic that I'm passionate about. I got first-hand experience with what it is like to be a journalist in the field, which was a tremendous learning experience both as a writer and as a person. ”

2023 FELLOW BRITTANY KLINTWORTH

How to Qualify for the Pulitzer Center Fellowship:

1. Seminar or Info Session:

Attend a seminar or session with Dr. Reut Cohen and Prof. Michelle Stonis. This is vitally important to learning about the initiative and hearing from previous and current fellows, as well as receiving training to learn how to submit a formal pitch. Either a seminar or an info session is held once every academic semester.

Finalists will be contacted by late January for a Zoom interview.

2. Submit your application by December 9, 2024 to gccpulitzercenter@glendale.edu.

- The application and successful pitch examples can be found here: <https://bit.ly/GCCPulitzerFiles>

2022 Fellow Jacqueline Kamei and Dr. Cohen at the May 2023 GCC Student Research Symposium. Image courtesy of Jacqueline Kamei.